365

in 2019

January 1, 2019:

This will be my 2nd "365 in ..." book. The last one I did was in 2015.

I am trying to capture special moments in my everyday life.

Knowing it will be my last full year in New York makes this project special.

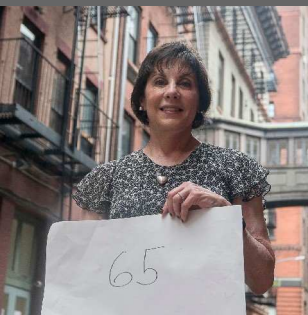

Let's see how the 2019 / 365 coffee table book will look like . . . in 365 days.

in 2019

December 31, 2019:

This small coffee table book is my second. It is a commitment to take one picture a day.

The last full year in New York, I wanted to keep some moments captured in and around New York City.

More than ever, I noticed so many people staring at their iPhones and are disconnected from what is happening around them. Those people didn't see what I did. They didn't see the fascinating parts of the city and city life.

Due to Covid19, the print of this book was delayed.

My new goal for 2020 was to take a picture every day during my LAST working month in Manhattan. It didn't happen because my last workday in the city was on March 9, 2020, instead of April 3. For the rest of the time, I worked from home.

Here are a few pictures that would have been included in a new book.

During all the years I lived and worked in New York, I looked at the fascinating, interesting views of the city. Some less pretty than others.

Next time see you in Santa Fe, New Mexico.

The following few pages are pictures I am not going to miss.
However, considering the size of the city with millions of people, it is kind of understandable.

LIRR (Long Island Railroad) was not the most pleasant experience ... delays and cancellations several times per week. "On-time" means 5-10 minutes late.

I worked for an incredible great company. Dover Windows & Doors with Larry as the owner.

We represented
*Dover's wood windows,
*Switzerland's Sky-Frame sliding doors, and *MHB Steel windows from Holland.

Pictures taken on April 4, 2020, the day I cleaned up my desk...

... and brewed my last Espresso :)
